My name is Adolfo Correa. I am an Art Director / Designer from Santiago de Chile.

Since I started my Graphic Design degree in 2007, I have been working like a freelancer for customers in South America, Europe and USA. Also I spent four years working like a member of an advertising company in Chile called “Doblegiro”.

Moreover, I have cooperated with many different organizations for particular projects where I exposed my work. Such us: “Baetulona, 100 años de historia” in Barcelona (Spain) for “Brrothers studios”, “DACS UNITED” exposition in Columbia (EEUU), “Kicking + Screening Soccer Film Festival” in Tribeca (New York), among others.

I don't have a defined style because to me it's more rewarding to experiment with all techniques and styles as possible, seeking to transmit personally but always in a playful and colorful way. This is my search around graphics, playing around the best way to show different content and experiment as much as I can. variety is what I seek.

I think the work and patience are what i use more when it comes to sit down and design, because filling a blank sheet of paper is always a challenge when there is no passion and dedication.

I'm just starting in this agitated world of design and hopefully i will keep learning so that later on i will have ability to preform work that may surprise and be enjoyed visually.
